I am writing [illegible] with Amnesty International as a [illegible] to be a peace-loving man, a man concerned for justice and the people of South Korea. He has been compared to our own Dr. Martin Luther King. We respect his work and believe he can be an instrument for closer relations between South Korea and the United States. I understand from Amnesty International that he and his fellow prisoners have not received a fair trial, and I urge his immediate release or that steps be taken immediately to see that he and the others do receive a fair trial. I am deeply concerned for the welfare of these people.

Yours sincerely,

Charles C. Lund II
